The National Urban League opens its 57th Annual Conference on Sunday, August 20, in Portland, Oregon. Speakers, panelists, and workshops will deal with the Conference theme: "People vs. The City? Challenge and Opportunity." Meetings will continue through August 24.

The League meets in the wake of the worst spell of racial violence in decades. Much attention will be devoted to discussion of the causes of the riots and proposals for radical changes in urban ghettos.

Whitney M. Young, Jr., the leagues national executive director, will deliver the keynote address at the opening meeting. He will announce two new national programs which the League will undertake: One in veteran affairs; and the other in mobilizing resources within the religious community to launch a frontal attack against racial injustice. Lindsley F. Kimball, National President, will preside at many of the meetings. Other major and speakers will include U.S. Senator Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass), Ersa H. Poston, President, New York State Civil Service Commission, and Courtlandt S. Gross, Director and Chairman Finance Committee, Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

About 1,200 delegates from the League 83 affiliates, includes business, labor, churches, government, and civic leaders will attend the five day meeting.

The conference working sessions will be devoted to an analysis of the current racial situation and the present status of efforts to close the racial gap. League statistics to be released at the conference show that the economic and social position of Negro citizens is actually worsening in relation to the white population.

The plenary sessions will hear analyses of the current scene by Dr. Hyland G. Lewis, Howard U. Professor of Sociology, and Charles E. Silberman, Director, the Carnegie Study of the Education of the Educators, Lisle C. Carter, Jr., Assistant Secretary, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Kenneth L. Meinen, Vice President Personnel, American Airlines.

Four major questions will be posed to the Monday and Tuesday workshops which will form the Conference's working sessions:

1. What needs to be done in local communities to improve the conditions of Negroes and other minorities?
2. Who are the people who can make the decisions to do something about changes which need to be made?
2. Who are the people who can make the decisions to do something about changes which need to be made.
3. Why don't they make the decisions?
4. What can be done to help the right people make the decisions?

Answers to these questions will form the basis for positive action to move local power structures to attack ghetto problems. By identifying problem areas and the people who can solve them, and then developing plans to get action, the League hopes to achieve major changes in the cities.

In addition to developing strategies for change on the local level, the Conference will hear major proposals for national action to end the underlying causes of the riots.

The National Urban League, founded in 1910, is an educational and charitable agency designed to secure equal opportunity for Negroes and other minorities.

Good Lima Bean Dish

Some cabbage and soy sauce are added for interest in this lima bean dish:

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans
- 1/4 pound mushrooms
- 3 to 4 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup finely shredded cabbage
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cook frozen lima beans according to package directions; drain and turn into a shallow 1 quart casserole. Slice mushrooms and cook in butter with chopped onion until soft. Add cabbage, salt and soy sauce; add to lima beans and mix thoroughly. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese over the top and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 servings.

Fresh Fruit Sauce Toppings

Among all the dessert possibilities to choose from, there's nothing that seems to appeal more quickly to the average American than ice cream. Although credit for its origin may go to a Frenchman (the chef to the Duc de Chartres, who supposedly created the frozen delicacy in 1774), America today ranks as the world's leading ice cream eating nation.

An easy, excellent way to add color and fresh fruit flavors to ice cream is to serve it with frozen fruits. For the simplest, no - work version of this dessert combination, just spoon the defrosted frozen fruit of your choice over scoops of ice cream or alternate spoonfuls of the defrosted fruit and ice cream in tall parfait glasses.

Always defrost the fruit in its unopened container, following the package directions or allowing about: 6 hours at refrigerator temperature; 1 1/2 hours at room temperature; 20 minutes under cold running water; 7 to 14 minutes in a bowl of warm water (for new quick - thaw frozen fruits in plastic pouches).

To puree frozen fruit, thaw only enough so that it can be separated into pieces. Place it in the container of an electric blender, cover and whirl until smooth. If the frozen fruit is thawed completely, it can be pureed with a food mill or by pressing it through a sieve.

But, defrosted frozen fruit, straight from the package or pureed, is just the beginning. Singly and in combinations, it also provides the foundation for a wide range of delicious fruit sauces.

Here are three excellent choices for vanilla ice cream: a smooth, creamy sauce made with frozen peaches and packaged pudding; a rich red raspberry sauce and a tangy, blueberry - almond sauce.

Frozen Peach Sauce:
1 package (12 ounces) frozen sliced peaches
1 package (3 1/4 ounces) vanilla pudding and pie filling
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons chopped drained maraschino cherries

Defrost peaches. Prepare vanilla pudding according to package directions, adding juice drained from the peaches and milk. Cook until pudding bubbles and thickens. Cool. Chop peaches or force through a very coarse sieve. Stir peaches and cherries into pudding. Chill for several hours. Serve over scoops of vanilla ice cream.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups.
Frozen Raspberry Sauce:
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries
1/4 cup currant jelly
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
Defrost raspberries. Combine raspberry syrup and jelly in saucepan. Blend together cornstarch and cold water; stir into syrup mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until sauce is clear and thickened. Add raspberries. Chill. Serve on scoops of vanilla ice cream.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups sauce.
Frozen Blueberry - Almond Sauce:
2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen blueberries
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds.

Defrost frozen blueberries. Combine blueberry syrup, lemon juice and lemon peel in saucepan. Blend together cornstarch and cold water; stir into syrup mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until sauce is clear and thickened. Add blueberries. Chill. Just before serving, stir in slivered almonds. Serve on scoops of vanilla ice cream.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

What to Do for an Encore?

■ Hank Stram, coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, is in a terrible position this season. The only thing he can do for an encore is beat the Green Bay Packers. That's something nobody has gotten rich doing ever since four Vince Lombardi took his talents to the northland.

The Chiefs posted the best record in the league (11-2-1) in sweeping to the AFL's Western Division championship last year, beat Buffalo for the overall title and then lost in the first Super Bowl, 35-10. On paper, about the only thing that figures to stop Kansas City from repeating is the possible shock of that second-half collapse in Los Angeles.

No less than ten players made first or second all-star for the Chiefs last year, not including second-team punter Jerrel Wilson. The Chiefs led the league in offense and were second in defense and that's just about the entire game right there.

Looking at the early roster, Kansas

City's main area of possible improvement looks to be the defensive line. Jerry Mays at end and Buck Buchanan at tackle were first-team all-stars. No changes there. However, Ed Lothamer lost his job at the other tackle to Andy Rice because of an injury, and if he comes back to his old form that could be a tremendous plus. Chuck Hurston holds forth at the other end, but right behind him is 270-pound Aaron Brown, last year's No. 1 draft choice from Minnesota. Kansas City fought a war with the NFL to sign Brown and the year's experience could make him just about ready.

The linebacking continues the best in the league with first-team all-star Bobby Bell and second-teamer E.J. Holub, who continues to excel despite ridiculous knees, surrounding hard-rock Sherill Headrick. The only hole in a secondary that includes the league's two best safeties in Bobby Hunt and Johnny Robinson is at right corner. Willie Mitchell was Green Bay's pigeon in the Super Bowl. Some of the AFL teams picked on him pretty good, too.

The most intriguing rookies on the defensive platoon are Jim Lynch, the star linebacker from Notre Dame, and Ed Pope, a 300-pound tackle from Jackson State. Pope is 6-8 while the Chief's No. 1 draft choice was 6-7, 277-pound defensive tackle Gene Trosch of Miami (Fla.).

Offensively, the Chiefs probably will continue to be led by Lenny Dawson, the 32-year-old veteran who had his best year in ten as a pro last season. Dawson led the AFL in passing in '66 and took over as the No. 1 thrower in league history. This must have been personally very unsettling to Pete Beathard, the fine prospect who will be starting his fourth season as an understudy. The Chiefs' third quarterback up from the taxi squad looks to be Sandy Stephens. Stephens, who went to Canada when he finished at Minnesota several years ago, would like to be the first Negro to quarterback a major pro team.

Dawson's major passing targets will continue to be Chris Burford and emerging super-star Otis Taylor, who tied for third in pass receptions with 58 catches each, for an amazing exhibition of balance. Fred Arbanas may only have one eye but he's still the league's premier tight end.

For running chores, Dawson can hand off to fullback Curtis McClinton or Mike Garrett. Garrett came strong the second half of his rookie year to tie for runner-up in the rushing lists. McClinton was eighth and Bert Coan, who shared half-back with Garrett, was ninth.

If Jon Gilliam comes back from a knee injury, he could provide still another plus at center over capable Wayne Frazier. The rest of the interior line is frightening with 6-6, 290-pound Jim Tyrer the anchor man at tackle.

The Chiefs have had top talent for many years but on only two occasions have been able to put it all together for a league championship. That history of frustration is the only negative note in Kansas City's outlook, and if it's determined early that Green Bay won't be in the next Super Bowl, watch out for the Chiefs!

Farewell to the "Foreign Legion"

■ Al Davis, who goes by the grand title of Managing General Partner with the Oakland Raiders, is a gambling man. He gambled four years ago when he first moved to Oakland as head coach and general manager, and he was even more daring as he gathered together practically every misfit in the American Football League into what he dubbed his Foreign Legion.

The fast-talking Brooklynite provided quite a shocker last year when he left Oakland to become commissioner of the AFL and then, having forced the National League into a merger, he walked out on the job three months later. Back on the West Coast in an executive capacity, Davis again is wheeling and dealing. Among his projects is the dissolution of the Foreign Legion.

A charter member of that group, Art Powell, was sent to Buffalo in an off-season deal involving four players and three draft choices. But, although the temperamental and talented split end may not like it, he was not the key man in the swap.

The trade centered on quarterbacks, and this is where Davis—and head coach Johnny Rauch—are making their major gamble for 1967. In the Powell deal they also traded away their No. 1 quarterback of the past several years, Tom Flores, for Darley Lamonica, who has spent most of his short pro career sitting on the bench at Buffalo. In another trade they obtained brittle Mickey Slaughter from Denver and now go into the season with Lamonica, Slaughter and hold-over Cotton Davidson, a 34-year-old veteran with a history of arm trouble.

Even though he has not always played as No. 1, Flores has always ranked first in Raider plans and prospects. One of the club's "originals" from the 1960 season, he sat out 1962 with a lung infection but came back strong and leaves Oakland with the second best all-time passing record in league history. More important, he has guided the Raiders to plus-500 records three of the last four years, and in two of them Oakland fought down to the final weeks for the Western Division title.

However, Flores, never did take the Raiders all the way and Davis and Rauch, himself a former standout quarterback, apparently were convinced he never would. Thus the gamble, opening up the position for a couple of newcomers with only Davidson as insurance.

Lamonica comes to the Raiders with impressive credentials. He's 6-3, 215 pounds and only 25 years old. This will be his fifth pro season coming up and, in addition to his imposing physique, he's a Notre Dame grad from nearby Fresno, Calif. He's a PR man's dream.

However, the only real chance he ever got to play was in 1964 when Buffalo coach Lou Saban used him as a "relief pitcher" for Jackie Kemp. But, when Buffalo got into a pair of crucial games late that season, Saban went all the way with Kemp. That decision paid off as Kemp blossomed into complete stardom, but it left Lamonica rusting on the bench. Last year he threw only 84 passes, the season before 70. In his "big" year he attempted only 128.
